October 22, 2017, will mark the first anniversary of my mother's death. In some ways, it seems like more than a year has passed. Her absence is a part of my daily life now. At times it still feels like the wound is fresh. I keep her memory alive by sharing stories about her. Especially, remembering how she did all she could do as a single mother, living in New York City (Harlem), raising four children. Through God's Grace, Mercy and Blessings, she always made a way out of no way!

Here is what I am missing on this first anniversary of my mother's death:

The way she loved the Lord, her children, grandchildren, great grandchild, and her family.

The warmth of her hugs, the advice she gave and her smile.

The love in her voice every time she spoke.

The way she gave all of herself to others without complaining even when she wasn't treated right by them, God blessed her!!

May her memory be a blessing to all those who had the opportunity to feel the love she gave unconditionally.

REST IN PEACE MA!!!!

To know Aunt Elizabeth was to love her. She was the one person that believed in keeping the peace. Always full of encouragement and love. Never wanting to see anyone down. If we could all take a lesson from her oh how great this world would be. I love and miss you Auntie.
