“ A writing by Grace Noll Crowell, posted by Sandi Johnson-Singleton

*Let me come in where you are weeping, friend,
And let me take your hand.
I, who have known a sorrow such as yours,
Can understand.
Let me come in -- I would be very still
Beside you in your grief;
I would not bid you cease your weeping, friend,
Tears bring relief.
Let me come in -- I would only breathe a prayer,
And hold your hand,
For I have known a sorrow such as yours,
And understand.*

“ How do you measure the worth of a man?

*Is it by his job or profession?
Is it by his physical appearance?
Is it by his personality or character traits?
Is it by his status in the community?
Is it by his net worth in dollars and cents?
Many people might define the worth of a man in such ways.
But, we the family, define the worth of Berry Bernard Holt:
By the love and devotion he displayed towards his family and friends.
By the number of lives he positively touched, and uplifted.
By the commitment, and dedication he gave to his work.
By the positive and encouraging spirit he continually displayed.
By his amazing strength, courage, and hope for tomorrow.
By the respect he has earned.
By the lasting effect of his warmth and love.
How do you measure the worth of a man?
I believe my baby brother's life set a marvelous standard
by which anyone may measure the worth of any man.
Peace, love, and blessings ~ Sandi*

“ Greetings to all. First, I give honour and glory to The Father, and His son, my Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. Grateful beyond words for the gift of my beloved baby brother, Berry, whom The Lord has blessed me to have in my life for 59 years. Memories, laughter, and great music to last me for a lifetime. I have missed you since I last saw you. I will love you eternally. Rest now, and I will see you in the morning. Love dearly, your sister, Sandi. 💜🙏🏻🙏🏻
