“ Justice, I just read what you said about your Nana Debbie. I called her D.A., that's what she wanted me to call her. I know how you feel about wanting to call her, I feel the same way. I still have her cell number on my phone, and it will stay there. I miss her so much, I still cry for her. It's hard, very hard. I love her so much, I know she's in a better place. D.A. was my sister-in-law, but I thought of her as my Sister. Mike sent me some pictures, I sent a picture with two children with D.A., I'm sure one of them was you. You are the only one I replied back to, I know you miss and love her just as much as I do. I can only pray that you get through this, it's hard for me. Thank you for writing about your Nana, that was very sweet. I will keep you in my prayers.

“ . My nana, i shared so many memories with her. She made me see situations differently i cant lie i know its been since Feb. But HONESTLY my nana was my heart, I miss her so much at times i feel like i can call her phone and just tell her whats wrong but i know i cant do that anymore. I was her FIRST grandchild, i stayed with her and my uncle mike all throughout the summer she taught me things i never even learned. She taught me more about boys and ALWAYS told me i could call on her whenever i needed her. It used to be times where we would go to Walmart and she would buy 6 or 7 cokes and drink them all before the week was over. That was all you ever find in her house. :) i would give ANYTHING just to have her back on earth with me. When i heard she passed it was like i shut down i couldnt sleep for days. I always remembered though she used to say when i die i always want you to know i love you BUD & i will never let harm come you way. She used to say she wanted me to have kids so she could see them grow into wonderful people, she said she was going to spoil them to death. Her number one thing was to be living to see me graduate, i told her im saving a seat for her when it all comes to that point and time. She said she wanted to be there for my wedding, but i know shes not here to see these things im leaving a special seat for her with a green flower. It was her favorite color, God never makes mistakes and he did take home a Angel , R.I.P Nana i love you and miss you

-- ps. I love you like a big , fat m&m :) that was our thing since we were little ; i could NEVER forget it.

“ sorry for your lost may u find comfort in the Lord

March 17, 2012 at 04:33 PM

“ May the family of Debra Boone find comfort in your loving memories, and in knowing that God is "near to those that are broken at heart; and those who are crushed in spirit he saves." (Psalm 34;18) While grief at the loss of Debra is great, joy at receiving her back in the resurrection will be greater. “ My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family in this hard time. But know that she is with GOD now, and will now longer be ill. Remeber and cherish all the good times that you had together.##imported-begin##Krista Everett##imported-end##
