“ I have known Emma since the 1980's when we worked for JC Penney in NYC. Our desks were right next to each and we became instant friends. I loved her sense of humor and how she spoke her mind. She was a classy lady with the best of character. We stayed in touch for 35 years through cards, letters and phone calls. She was a true friend. Some may say, what does a southern lady and an Italian girl from up North have in common? Common values, and a soft heart. We both love Jesus. And I know that is who she's with right now. Our precious Lord and savior. This week I kept thinking about Emma. It was like the Lord was letting me know she had passed. I am devastated by this loss but I know she is in a better place. My condolences to her family. I love you Emma. You made such a difference in my life. Linda Gallo, Brooklyn, NY

“ Emma,
I am sad & miss you.. from the first day we met @ work our friendship came to be.. I feel that there are special friends in this world that are here to help each other & always be there for them.. you were such a friend.. your laughter, kind words made life easier..
I always counted on you to tell me the truth & you did in your wisdom & gentle ways...
Now you are with God & resting in his presence.. I will carry & remember you in my heart & this is were I will keep you & when needed I will reach out & ask that you will guide & help me as you did so many times...
Rest In Peace my friend.. you made this world a better place & so glad & happy that our paths crossed.. I miss you & Heaven has a new Angel...
Love,
Maria

“ Dear Emma, may you be resting in the good grace of his peace.
I hope my thoughts can find you. Life hands you gifts in the rare people that cross your path. Gifts that you carry forward with you your entire life having been made better for them . You my friend were one such person Memories of my time as co workers, I treasure. Your wisdom, guidance, and genuine heart, soul and grace rarely found in the outside world helped me survive those days. . As I have been blessed for having crossed your path I know the angles rejoice in now having you among them.
All love and prayers for you,
Nina
