Condolences to the family of Lucille Boyce. I have been searching the internet for a very memorable cornbread recipe I had misplaced over the years but never have forgotten. I am hoping this Lucille Boyce was the wife of a duPont executive who worked with my father William Gallagher many years ago. Somehow he was honored with the most amazing cornbread recipe that I have been searching for all these years. What a miracle it would be if I actually found the correct Lucille and someone on her family could get the treasured recipe to me. I can be reached at mccarthyfamily@comcast.net
